Dear Readers,
Dear Colleagues,

I would like to share with you information about our success. The Central European Journal of Urology is now available on the PubMed database! I am very pleased that access to articles published in the Central European Journal of Urology will be easier and more importantly, present alongside all of the major scientific journals in the world. Yes! The Central European Journal of Urology is available in the PubMed database!

Dear Reviewers,
Dear Editors,

The Central European Journal of Urology is present on the PubMed database! It is a success towards which many people have been working. We owe this success to our reviewers and the editors whose toil and hard work has contributed to an increased quality of writing. Although the compensation may not always be sufficient, the work done by reviewers deserves great respect. I would like to personally thank all of our dear reviewers who reviewed articles in 2013. I have allowed myself to further distinguish those whose efforts in reviewing were the greatest.

Dear Authors,

I would like to share with you a very important message because I know that it will have great impact on your scientific development. Thanks to the presence of the Central European Journal of Urology in the PubMed database your scientific results will be seen in the international forum, and thus have a chance to actually influence the shape of science in the world! I think this is crucial information for people involved in scientific activities. Unlimited availability of your articles will increase interest in them and through this, affect the number of citations. Thank you for choosing the Central European Journal of Urology as the media outlet through which you want to provide the entire scientific community with the results of your work. Now it can really happen!

I hope that you will be satisfied with our cooperation!
